Statistic Notes:

* - The real estate industry standard calculation for months of inventory is to divide the current inventory units by the number of units sold in the last 30 days

 - Sales to List Price ratio is calculated by dividing the average sales price into the average list price of the units sold.

 - This number does not reflect the times a home that is sold has been on the market before by (1) its owner, (2) another Realtor whose listing expired, or (3) a listing cancelled and then relisted to generate new interest. This number in most instances does not reflect the number of days from contract to close which averages 30-45 days for most closings. In order to have a true picture of the date property is listed to the date of closing a seller would need to add prior "days for sale" activity to the above average days on market plus 30-45 days from contract to close. The above is not reflective of a specific area but takes into account all homes on the MLS that sold in the last 30 days and the last 12 months. Your agent can give you a specific report tailored to your area.
